

Creek View Elementary

Carol Carroll
Early Intervention Specialist

I am an Early Intervention Specialist at Creek View Elementary. This is my 29th year in education and my 6th year in College Station ISD. I have been privileged to teach kindergarten through adults as both a classroom teacher and reading specialist. Originally from New York, I came to Texas as a young child. My family settled in Huntsville, Texas where I grew up, married, received my education at Sam Houston State University and raised three wonderful sons. These sons have blessed me with three fantastic daughter-in-laws and six grandchildren (three boys and three girls) that are the joy of my life. Family is important to me and I spend as much time as possible with my children and grandchildren, watching and supporting them in their activities such as swimming, water skiing, football and baseball. During my free time I also enjoy spending time with friends, reading, music events, sewing and traveling. My summers are busy traveling with family and friends to various parts of the USA. I am grateful and in absolute awe of this magnificent land that God has created.

Alison Stone
Reading Specialist

My name is Alison Stone and I am currently serving as the Reading Specialist at Creek View Elementary. I have been blessed to give 18 years of my life in the field of educating learners and feel as though I am able to fulfill my life's calling each and every day. My passion has always been rooted in literacy, and I enjoy continuing to learn and grow as I refine my own literacy knowledge each year. I grew up in the Bryan-College Station area, graduated from Bryan High School and then Texas A&M University. I have worked in Cy Fair ISD, Tomball ISD, and then came home to be a part of CSISD. I feel blessed to have both of my children attend CSISD schools, as this is a great place to call home.
